Plenary Session I

Day 1- 7 September 2026, Jacaranda Hall

1430 - 1530 Hrs Scale & Speed: Role of the Private Sector in Achieving the 'Right to Win' in the Space Economy

Session will focus on how private space sector can rapidly build scale, agility, and competitiveness to emerge as a global leader. It will explore the critical enablers required for private players to move beyond early-stage innovation to large-scale commercialization. Discussion will also examine how private space companies can shorten development cycles, enhance execution speed, and align with global market demands to secure a competitive edge. Ultimately, the session aims to highlight what it will take for the private sector across the world to not just participate in, but decisively "win" in the evolving global space economy.

Plenary Session II
Day 1- 7 September 2026, Jacaranda Hall

1530 - 1630 Hrs Next-Generation Satellites: Transforming Space Capabilities, Space Services, and Sectoral Applications

Session will discuss how next-generation satellite communications are reshaping global connectivity and explore the technologies and applications driving a truly interconnected planet. Session highlights breakthroughs in broadband constellations, optical intersatellite links, and direct-to-device connectivity advancing resilient, secure, and inclusive digital infrastructure. Discussion may also highlight emerging commercial opportunities and sectoral applications, shaping the future of India's and the global satellite communications ecosystem.

1000 - 1100 Hrs Earth Observation (EO) to Intelligence: Driving Societal & Business Impacts

Session will explore how Earth Observation technologies are transforming decision-making across sectors by delivering actionable intelligence for societal good and commercial growth. Discussion will focus on how EO data supports climate resilience, disaster management, agriculture, urban planning, and infrastructure monitoring, while also enabling new business models for industry. It will also highlight how advanced analytics, AI, and satellite technologies are enabling data-driven solutions that create societal benefits and unlock new commercial opportunities. Speakers will highlight current gaps, user-industry needs, and the pathways to scale EO adoption through improved accessibility, analytics, and policy support, ultimately showcasing EO's role in driving both national development and market opportunities.

1130 - 1230 Hrs Human Spaceflight & Deep Space Exploration: The Next Frontier

India's remarkable achievements in space science from the historic Chandrayaan-3 lunar landing to the NISAR mission and the ambitious Gaganyaan programme are redefining its role in global NewSpace leadership. The session will explore India's growing capabilities in human spaceflight and deep-space exploration, highlighting technological advancements, industry participation, international perspectives and emerging opportunities shaping the future of sustained human presence beyond Earth. Discussions will also cover human-rated systems, space habitats, advanced technologies, life-support systems, and lunar and planetary exploration, while examining opportunities for international perspectives to enable the next generation of human spaceflight and deep-space missions.

1230 - 1330 Hrs Sustainable Access to Space: Greener Launch Systems, Debris Mitigation & Responsible Mission Operations

Session will underscore the critical importance of achieving sustainable access to space through cleaner launch technologies, effective debris-mitigation measures, space situational awareness (SSA), space traffic management, and responsible mission operations. It will explore advancements such as green propellants, reusable launch systems, lightweight and high-efficiency solar technologies, including next-generation printed solar cells, and design-for-deorbit principles that help reduce launch mass, improve mission efficiency, and curb the growing challenge of orbital debris. Discussion will also cover essential practices for responsible operations such as space-traffic management, collision-avoidance frameworks, and sustainability standards for satellites and large constellations.

Europe and India share a strong and growing partnership in the space sector, driven by technological innovation, commercial opportunities, and a shared vision for sustainable space development. With Europe's advanced space capabilities and India's rapidly expanding NewSpace ecosystem, there is significant potential for collaboration across satellites, launch services, Earth observation, communications, space exploration, and emerging technologies. Strengthening industry-to-industry partnerships can unlock new markets, accelerate innovation, and build a more resilient global space economy. This will explore opportunities for collaboration, innovation, technology partnerships, investment, and market access, shaping a more connected and competitive global space ecosystem.
